Samaire Armstrong's character on Dirty Sexy Money has more than enough dough to take advantage of luxurious beauty treatments, but the actress has one up on her: Samaire's mother is internationally renowned spa and fitness consultant Sylvia Sepielli. So it's no surprise that the actress saw the writers' strike as the perfect opportunity to escape to Malaysia for some much needed R&R.

While visiting Spa Village Pangkor Laut, she unwound with some heavy pounding. "From traveling, working or generally standing on my feet too much, I carry a lot of stress in my feet," she says. "I discovered that tapping the bottom of my feet with the wooden mallets there are an ideal relief. I have one for my trailer and one for my home."

Samaire's beauty steal—Fasio Hyper-Stay mascara—hails from Japan, her birthplace; $12.

"I put RevitaLash on every night for long lashes," she says; $150.
